Adapting an Open Text

Published 1/28/2021 by Ashley Ribbel

Welcome everyone to "Teaching and Learning Stories from the Field," a new podcast from Seneca's Teaching & Learning Centre. In this podcast, we will hear stories from faculty about unique strategies and initiatives in their classes.

We are starting off the new podcast with an amazing success story of adapting an open text which has saved students upwards of $400,000, all while creating custom course materials, strengthening our commitment to accessible course resources, and ensuring day one access for all students in EAC594.
